Key Facts

- Important promises are made in the Sacrament of Marriage.
- Married people play their part in the Family of God and so do other people such as bishops, priests and deacons. They receive a special Sacrament so that they can play their part in the life of the Church. This is called the Sacrament of Holy Orders.
- A bishop has the responsibility of teaching and preaching the Gospel of Christ and the Catholic Faith and caring for God's people in an area of the country called a diocese.
- The Archbishop's church is called a Cathedral.
- The local priest is appointed by the Archbishop to care for God's people, to teach the Gospel and the Catholic Faith in an area called a parish. Usually a town or part of a bigger city.
- Laying on of hands and calling down of the Holy Spirit are signs of the person being chosen to serve in the Church as a priest.
- A deacon is ordained to serve in a local community, helping the priest to care for God's people and sharing in the task of celebrating the sacraments.
