Wed	Fractions – talk for maths  Ben shares a chocolate bar with his brother. They cut it exactly in half, but then Ben says  “My half is bigger than your half.”  Why is Ben wrong?  Talk to a grown-up about it.	Reading – inference &amp; background knowledge ‘The Lighthouse Keeper’s Lunch’ is our new class book.  Before you listen to the story, talk to a grown-up about: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What you already know about lighthouses</li> <li>• Where lighthouses can be found</li> <li>• Why they are built</li> <li>• What jobs a lighthouse keeper might do</li> </ul> Now listen to the story by clicking on the link below: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=46wCRq50Wwg	R.E – Pentecost  Last week we began learning about Pentecost. This week you are continuing to think about this.  The Holy Spirit is the power and strength of God at work in the lives of Christians on Pentecost day. Today the Holy Spirit is the helper of Christians.  Say a prayer to the Holy Spirit, asking for it to help you or somebody else (this could be somebody you know, e.g. a friend or family member, or people you don’t know, e.g. homeless people, poorly people).
